To Whom It May Concern:

My name is David Yarosz, an Account Executive for Sogeti USA. I first came into contact with the Healthy Visions team in May 2013, when Sogeti was approached to participate in a community-wide effort to bring their award-winning Safe Teen program online.

When Sogeti was approached by Healthy Visions, we were immediately struck by how closely their educational goals for students aligned with Sogeti's core values. After watching Healthy Visions in the classroom, the decision to help was easy. Healthy Visions teaches teens that honesty, love, and respect are the foundation of every relationship, no topic is taboo, and kids are encouraged to share. Our consultants were excited to help, by leading requirements gathering, designing games, and translating the Safe Teen program into an online experience. We saw the project as our opportunity to give back to the community in a way that would continue long after the project's completion.

I am writing to personally recommend Healthy Visions, and to support their efforts to participate in the Community Connectors program. Healthy Visions used a similar vision to bring businesses, schools, and students together to expand access to Safe Teen programming.

I am certain the organization has the commitment and ability to achieve this same level of collaboration and creativity to the Community Connectors program.

An investment in Healthy Visions, and the students of Dohn Community High School, will accomplish the Governor's goals of strengthening the community, providing mentoring for students, and creating new pathways for higher educational achievement, higher levels of well-being, and a brighter, more productive future for these students.

Sincerely,

David Yarosz
