

Earn your Graduate Certificate in K-12 Online Teaching and Learning

Bowling Green State University is proud to announce a new certificate program with the primary goal of preparing K-12 classroom teachers to be effective online teachers and providing them with research skills necessary to investigate student learning within online K-12 educational contexts.

The new certificate program is offered 100% online and consists of four courses.

- › Psychological Foundations of E-learning (EDFI 6300, 3 credits)
- › Educational Technology & Society (EDFI 6400, 3 credits)
- › Designing, Managing and Evaluating E-Learning Environments (EDFI 6500, 3 credits)
- › Application of Technological Tools and Practicum in Online Teaching and Learning (EDFI 6960, 4 credits).

This program is slated to begin Summer 2013, with either one or two courses being offered, depending on demand.

Successful applicants must meet the following criteria:

- 1) Background in education (BA in education and/or related field with at least six credit hours of undergraduate or graduate level educational foundations courses)
- 2) Undergraduate GPA of at least 2.8
- 3) Either successfully passed the Praxis PLT and Content Areatests or have demonstrated their academic ability with GRE scores

$$\begin{array}{r} 2500 \\ + 5 \\ \hline 12500 \end{array}$$

Learn more at bgsu.edu/mct
 Questions? Contact Allison Goedde, Ph.D.,
agoedde@bgsu.edu, 419-372-7394